IN submitting the fol'owing Catalogue to the public," some apology is necessary for the length of time that has elapsed since its commencement; but if its progress has been slow, its publication has been regular; and the publisher feels considerable gratification in being at length enabled to submit to the public the largest Sale Catalogue of Portraits ever published in this or any other country, comprizing nearly 20,000 prints.*

The publisher is fully sensible of the greater difficulty attending the making of a Catalogue of Prints than of books; in the latter a reference to the date will at once show the edition, and the condition is easily expressed. The prints are, generally speaking, fine old impressions, intermixed with others in an inferior state. He has endeavoured to describe them as clearly as the necessarily small limits will admit; and in no instance has the real condition been mis-stated. Wherever the portrait is described as being a Proof, India paper, or before letters, &c. the public may depend on finding it to be in such state. Should however, any of the prints ordered be found to disappoint expectation, others to the same amount will be allowed in exchange.

The publisher is quite aware that, extensive as this collection is, the very rare portraits do not abound; nor does he deem that of much importance. Generally speaking, they are not of the most interesting characters in our annals. Of nearly all our eminent men, infinite variety of portraits are to be procured by the best artists; while even the style of engraving of some of the rarest prints is below mediocrity. The works of Faithorne form a brilliant exception, and of these the publisher has endeavoured to procure some fine specimens.

In addition to the portraits in the catalogue, the publisher has on sale a very extensive collection of Foreign Portraits of all classes for illustration; also a great variety of very fine ones, more generally sought after as specimens of art, comprising numerous specimens from Raphael, Rembrandt, Rubens, Rigaud, Vandyke and Titian, finely engraved by Balechou, Drevet, Edelinck, Masson, Houbraken, Nanteuil, Wille, &c. &c.

As additions are continually making to this Collection, and even during the printing of the catalogue some considerable purchases have been added, Gentlemen having lists they are desirous of completing, are respectfully requested to forward them to the publisher, who will endeavour to procure any that may be wanting, if not already among his subsequent purchases.

* Although the last number is only 11756, yet, as frequently two and even three portraits are given in one number, and very often a variety are included, there can be little doubt that the total number of prints exceeds the above quantity.

8141 The original document from which the autograph has been copied, is so curious an illustration of Printselling temp. Charles I. that the publisher thinks a copy of it will not be deemed out of place, It was found pasted on a blank leaf of a copy of the Collection of Scripture prints, generally called "Visscher's Bible."—

M'd. Sould this booke the 26th of Octob. 1640 to Sr. Thomas Richardson for three pounds, & I doe promise & agree to add unto it what prints soever are wanting in this booke & are in y'e booke of this kind which Mr. James Caltrop of Thorpland in y'e County of Norfolke hath, y'e sayd Sr. Tho. paying 2d. ob. ffor each leafe which shall be soe added. Robt. Peake.

9067 for 1692, read 1762.

9230 The only authentic portrait of this celebrated female. The print given as a portrait in some of the Illustrations to Byron, more resembles one of the wives of an Italian brigand, whom Eastlake's genius has converted into objects of interest and sympathy, rather than holding them up to detestation, as abettors of murder, and disgraces to their sex.

Manuelle's deeds, and Byron's lines, have immortalized her.

"Her lover sinks—she sheds no ill-timed tear;
Her chief is slain—she fills his fatal post:
Her fellows flee—she checks their base career;
The foe retires—she heads the sallying host:
———and o'er the yet warm dead,
Stalks with Minerva's step, where Mars might quake to tread."
